

A black and white photograph of a vintage microscope. The microscope is positioned horizontally, with its eyepiece on the left and its objective lenses on the right. The body is made of metal, with various adjustment knobs and rings visible. A white, curved label is placed in the foreground, partially obscuring the lower part of the microscope. The label contains the text "pf 1985", "technické muzeum", and "BRNO" in a sans-serif font. The background is dark, making the metallic parts of the microscope stand out.
